CANADA'S ATTITUDE.

Regards Newfoundland's Quarrel with Little Sympathy.

Thinks Island Colony Resorts to Spoiled Child Tantrums.

A despatch from Montreal to a Boston paper shows that Canada is not disposed to disturb the present agreeable relations, both business and personal, with this country, by taking any stand for Newfoundland in her present modus vivendi troubles with the mother country. The despatch says in part:

"No great interest is shown here in the revivification of the United States-Newfoundland quarrel by the Opposition in the British Parliament yesterday. In fact, it has proved all along rather difficult to arouse a very high degree of patriotic Canadian fervor over the woes of the 'ancient colony,' 'the mystic land of Avalon,' in this regard. The dominant element there, which is recognized as of rather doubtful loyalty of fidelity to either imperial or Canadian interests, is recognized as inclined to perfervidity on this and other subjects, and to resort to spoiled-child tantrums with too easy facility. The spectacular denunciations of the government and appeals to Canadian people because the former interfered to prevent a drastic course toward American fishermen which would surely have involved the whole republic and empire in a parous row, is regarded by reasonable and responsible people with little sympathy or respect.

"This especially in view of the absolutely helpless condition of the colony itself, in case matters should go to extremes, and its high-shouldered attitude hitherto that nobody else, the dominion especially, had any part or lot in the matter—that Newfoundland could and must absolutely boss the international fishery situation all by her lonesome.

"The onslaughts which have been made in Canada from time to time in Parliament and out of it on the modus vivendi; that is to say, the privileges granted to American fishermen in Canadian waters, have resulted in little or nothing so far, because these privileges resulted in much benefit to some Canadian interests, however detrimental to others. Hence the former would not permit their abrogation at the instance of the latter.

"To plunge the two nations into a quarrel, such as the Newfoundlanders came very near causing, by their truculent attitude between Great Britain and France, does not seem very sensible to outsiders, such as they have always insisted Canadians really are in this controversy."

FISHERMEN LOSE.

Seining Will Continue To Be Prohibited in Buzzard's Bay.

The bill removing the restriction on fishing in Buzzard's Bay was overwhelmingly defeated in the house yesterday. The bill would have permitted seining for menhaden, and it was opposed on the ground that it would destroy the food fish.

The vote was 113 to 55 against ordering to a third reading. It was charged during the debate that the American Fisheries Company wants to go into the bay and use not only the menhaden but the food fish for oil.

Before this bill was debated Representative Pattison of Barnstable had substituted for the adverse report of the committee on fisheries and game, the bill to stop seining in the waters of Barnstable and Mashpee.

Representatives Terry and Stoddard of this city both spoke at length in favor of the bill.

March 21.

Big Trips.

Sch. Frances P. Mesquita, Capt. Joseph P. Mesquita, of this port, is at Boston today from Georges with the largest trip of the winter, having 50,000 pounds of fresh cod and haddock. Prices are not high, but Capt. Mesquita and his men will make a fine stock and share nevertheless.

Sch. Belbina P. Domingoes, Capt. Domingoes, is also at T wharf today from Georges with a fine trip of 60,000 pounds of fresh fish.

Both this craft and the Mesquita have been shore fishing all winter and about two weeks ago came home, put on double dories and then started for offshore work. They have certainly started in well.

March 21.

DURING HIGH WIND.

Sch. Margaret Dillon Grounded Going Up Boston Harbor.

While sch. Margaret Dillon was beating in through the Narrows in Boston harbor against the terrific northwesterly gale at noon yesterday, she mistayed and ran aground on Gallup's island. She was pulled afloat shortly before the noon hour by the tug Pallas without injury and towed up to the fish pier, where she took out 14,000 pounds of fresh fish which she brought in from the shore grounds.

March 21.

REFUSED RECONSIDERATION.

Buzzard Bay Fishing Bill Killed Yesterday.

The house, after some debate, yesterday, refused to reconsider the rejection of the bill to permit the setting of pounds and traps with local consent in the waters of Buzzard's bay. The roll call vote on reconsideration was 86 yeas to 119 nays.

Representatives Stoddard and Terry of this city spoke in favor of the bill, and many supporters were gained, but not enough to be effective.

March 21.

POLLOCKING SEINING.

Noted Shacker Will Make Trip to Maine Coast.

Capt. George Smith, the famous Maine coast and Bay of Fundy shacker, is fitting sch. Eglantine for a pollock seining trip to the Maine coast. This is a new departure, particularly so at this season of the year, but Capt. Smith says that hauls have already been made in Penobscot bay and is confident of getting a trip and is anxious to get away. The result of the trip will be watched with much interest.

March 20.

SEVERAL NEW BUILDINGS.
To Be Added to Cunningham & Thompson's Plant.
WORK TO SOON COMMENCE
One Large Structure Will Hold 2200 Butts of Fish.
Cunningham & Thompson have completed their plans for a new building on the site of their large one which was destroyed by fire a few months ago. Beside this, this enterprising firm has also had plans made for a large fish storage building, to cover practically the whole of their large flake yard on Commercial street, southerly side, between the big building which was burned and the corner of Fort square.
Work on both these large structures will be commenced very soon and in connection with their erection, the firm also has plans for other changes in present buildings and wharf property and also the erection of some smaller fish buildings, all of which work is intended to be underway at the same time, so that the firm can have the benefit of all the improvements as soon as possible, for the accommodation of its very large business.
All the plans have been prepared by John W. Day, the local contractor and builder, who will do all the carpenter work and also have general supervision of all the work. The plumbing and heating plants will be furnished by L. E. Andrews of this city, who will also do the work of installing and setting up these plants. Morse, Williams & Co. will put in the elevators and the Carey Roofing Company will furnish the patent roofing material which will be used on the buildings. Five hundred thousand feet of lumber and 500 barrels of cement will be used in the construction work, these large amounts giving some idea of the size of the buildings and the amount of work to be done.
The building to replace the one recently burned, will occupy that same location, facing Commercial street and running back to Pavilion beach. The old building, at the front and northeast corner, was built around the two-story-and-a-half store and office building of Oakes & Foster. As Cunningham & Thompson recently bought the wharf, buildings, flakes, etc., of this concern, they will move this building out of the way, thus giving them a chance for an increased frontage for their new buildings, which will be 67 feet wide at the street and holding the same width, will run back a distance of 180 feet toward Pavilion beach. Like the burned building, this structure will be three stories in height and will be laid out with an eye to the needs of the business and the quick and easy handling of fish.
The first floor will be used for the storage of fish in all stages of curing after coming from the butts. On the second floor will be the skinning loft, the packing room and also rooms for other departments of the business. The third story will be used for storage and for the artificial dryer. The threaded fish and earring departments will also be on this floor. The dryer will be a large one, 50 by 90 feet, and will be heated by hot water.
All the machinery, etc., for the handling, drying and otherwise preparing the fish for market will be of the latest pattern. A large freight elevator will run from the ground floor to the roof, and the latter will be entirely covered with flakes for the spreading and drying of fish.
At the rear of this building a brick boiler house will be constructed. It will be 53 by 20 feet, with a brick stack 60 feet in height. In this building will be one steam heater and two hot water heaters, and at the rear a coal pocket, of 50 tons capacity will be built.
Between the new three-story structure, which will be known as the "fish house," and the other new buildings will be a driveway of sufficient width to admit of the easy handling of big teams. The other building, which will be known as the "butt house," will cover a large amount of ground, being 112 feet in width, with the same frontage on Commercial street, and extend back 181 feet, clear to Pavilion beach.

SAME OLD STORY.
Newfoundland Will Try To Make it Hot for Salt Bankers.
A despatch from St. John's N. F., says "the colonial cruiser Fiona, with Fishery Inspector O'Reilly on board, will sail tomorrow for the southwest coast of the island, where American fishing vessels are said to be assembling. The cruiser is sent to the fishing grounds to prevent infringements of the colonial laws, which forbid trawling within the three-mile limit.
"Last year two American vessels were fined for trawling within the limit. The Americans claim the right to use trawls under the treaty of 1818."

BRYCE GOES TO OTTAWA.
Prospect That Fisheries Disputes Will Soon Be Settled.
Investigation Probable To Ascertain All Existing Rights.
James Bryce, the British ambassador, was in New York yesterday on his way to Ottawa. His visit to the Dominion capital at this time is to better in several ways the relations between the United States and Canada. Bryce is going to Ottawa for the purpose of obtaining the final views of the Canadian government with respect to the settlement of the various questions pending between that government and the United States.
He is equipped with instructions from London, and at a conference yesterday afternoon with President Roosevelt and Secretary Root he was apprised of the attitude of this country.
Bryce and Root are very close to an agreement, and that, unless Canada adopts a militant course, conventions will be signed within a very short time that will remove all friction between the United States and Great Britain.
There are something like 18 questions to be settled, the fourth, the one in which Gloucester is most interested, being as follows:
"Regulation of Fisheries in the Great Lakes and Off the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts—The secretary wants an international commission appointed to deal with the lake fisheries. As to the salt water fisheries, he believes that the two governments should make an investigation to ascertain the existing rights of each and then to accord to fishermen treatment as fair and liberal as is given by the United States and Canada to persons engaged in other business."

March 22.

The craft weighed off 90,000 pounds of fish and each of the crew of 20 men profited to the extent of $72, making the largest share taken down in the winter haddock fishery this season.
